Ferry Passengers Over Swollen Creek

GRASSLAND — Spring thaw brought floods to this district. Residents of Spruce Valley and Deer Run were completely isolated, except by boat, across the swollen reaches of Pine Creek. Many pupils have been unable to get to school and some pupils and a few teachers from outlying districts have been staying in Grassland. The highway has been washed out in many places and Mr. Fleming has been kept busy ferrying passengers across Pine Creek at his place.

Mr. Babcock and Mr. Chambers had to travel two miles by boat before reaching the road north of Grassland.

Tree Planting Car Coming

The big Canadian National Railways Conservation Railway car is coming to the Lac la Biche and McMurray districts soon. Sponsored by the Canadian Forestry Association it will keep an itinerary as follows:

Hylo May 7, Caslan May 8, Lac la Biche May 9, Philomena May 10, Imperial Mills May 12, Conklin May 14, Chard May 15, Anzac May 16, Waterways and Fort McMurray May 17 and 18.

Donated by the Canadian National Railways, serviced and moved over the lines of Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, and Northern Alberta Railways through their generous co-operation, this specially equipped cinema-coach is paying its first visit to Alberta, stopping at points listed on the itinerary outlined above.

In charge of Mr. Paul Pageau, the Conservation Car is operated by the National head office of the association and during the past two years has travelled across Canada from coast to coast, holding hundreds of meetings in eastern Canada and British Columbia. The present itinerary is its first tour in the Prairie Provinces.

This visit to Alberta forms part of the annual Forest Conservation Tours conducted by the Association in co-operation with the Alberta Forest Service. In addition to this tour, the familiar red auto vehicles, which for years have brought the message of forest conservation to scores of Alberta communities, will again be visiting points in the forested areas of the province.

The object of the tour is to secure public understanding and co-operation in the conservation of Alberta's natural resources of soil, woods, waters and wildlife. Sound films and talks stress the part these resources play in the life of every person, the need for their protection and wise management, if we are to continue to enjoy their essential benefits. All local arrangements for the meeting held in the Conservation Car at the points shown on the above itinerary, are arranged by the Forest Officers of the Alberta Forest Service. There is no admission fee nor charge of any kind at the meetings held.

The total estimated value of agriculture production in Alberta for 1955 was $652,279,000 compared with $543,007,000 in 1954.

Manned here by RSM Teddy Baker at left, and Sgt. Stan Egerton of Toronto, the heavy and cumbersome but always faithful, Vickers .303 machine-gun has been retired at the age of 41 as the standard, infantry support automatic weapon by the Canadian army. Its place has been taken by a relative upstart —the Browning .30 machine-gun which is being put through its paces by Sgts. J. R. Howe, foreground, and Dave Crook. While the firepower of the two guns is practically equal — 400 to 500 rounds a minute — the light weight and mobility of the Browning (it weights 50 pounds compared to Vickers' 85) fits it better for modern warfare. The Vickers traces its ancestry back to the very beginnings of automatic weapons — the famous multiple-barrel Gatling gun of the early 19th century. The modern version — a belt-fed water-cooled machine-gun—came into being in 1912 and served with distinction from 1914 to 1918 and again during World War II.

Fire Averted By Quick Response Fire Department

The Lac la Biche fire department anwered a call at Boyko' rooming house at 9 p.m. on April 25. Fortunately this turned out to be only a chimney fire and it was brought under control within a few minutes after the fire crew arrived and no serious damage was caused.

Normally, a chimney fire is not too serious. However, at the time of the fire, the winds were about 45 m.p.h., with gusts up to 60 m.p.h. and one of the worst snow blizzards that Lac la Biche has had this winter. This kind of weather can make a chimney fire extremely dangerous, due to the fact that sparks and flames are usually driven on to adjoining buildings.

However, in last night's fire, no other buildings were endangered, due to the quick action of the local fire department. There were four members of the fire department left on fire watch all night at the fire hall, due to this fire and the terrific storm.

Feted On 25th Anniversary

FRAINS — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nahorney were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary, when friends and neighbors gathered for a surprise party. A buffet supper was served. Mr. Shwetz baked the anniversary cake which was trimmed with silver and cherries.

Games were enjoyed and many useful gifts were presented. The family presented them with a chimes clock. Mr. and Mrs. Nahorney thanked the guests for their kindness in a few well-chosen words.

District Agricultural Notes

By J. S. LORE, D.A.

It will be only a couple of weeks until everyone is busy in the fields. The time between now and the time that you can get in the field, should be utilized in checking over all of your spring tillage machinery and preparing the grain that you are going to seed for seeding. If you have not already done so, check all your machines for worn or broken parts and have them replaced before spring work starts, so that it doesn't cause a costly breakdown in the field.

The grain that you are going to seed should be cleaned and treated now so that you do not waste valuable time later on, doing this chore. No matter how clean the grain in the bin looks, it should be put through a fanning mill to take out weeds, chaff, undersized and oversized kernels. The most common way of polluting clean ground with the weeds is through the use of unclean seed. Even if the field is already fairly dirty, you are adding to your own miseries by seeding dirty seed. The time spent in cleaning seed is negligible compared to the time it will take in trying to eradicate those same weeds, once they are planted in the field.

In treating your seed against seed-borne diseases, mercurial seed treatments are recommended. They not only control surface-borne smuts, but also seedling blight and seed rot. You can also get mercurial treatments mixed with insecticides to control wireworms when the grain is treated with such treatments. The cost of this treatment is considerably greater, so it should be used only where wireworms are known to cause damage. In treating with mercurials, the directions on the container should be followed and all safety precautions followed. Formaldahyde treatment, which is most commonly used in this district, is not nearly as effective in disease control as the mercurial seed treatment, nor does it effect any control seedling blight or seed rot. It also impairs germination slightly. Another advantage of mercurial treatments is that the seed can be treated before spring work starts and therefore saves valuable time in the field. When treating your grain, try to treat only the amount of grain that you are going to seed. It is unlawful and very dangerous to sell treated grain for human or animal consumption. Therefore, if you have any treated grain left over, it should be bagged and tagged and used for seeding green feed or used the following year.

Surprise Party Honors Couple On 25th Anniversary

FRAINS — Friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nahorney of Frains, to celebrate their 25th wedding aninversary on April 21. Due to impassable roads, their sons, relatives and some others, were unable to attend.

After supper was served, the evening was spent playing games. Piano solos were played by Mr. and Mr. Nahorney's daghters, Joanne and Helen.

The couple received gifts to mark their anniversary.

Before departing, those present gathered around the couple and sang a hymn in honor of their anniversary, after which the couple expressed thanks to friends and neighbors for their kindness.

Magician Visits Lac la Biche

LAC LA BICHE — The United Church of Canada, Lac la Biche branch, sponsored a magician's show, called the Arabian Nights, on April 20. James McCormick helped one of the magicians in a performance; a young Senetza girl was awarded a little live rabbit for assisting the magician in pulling it out of his hat; Ernest Coutney's little son was given two goldfish in a bowl for assisting the magician in pulling them out of nowhere.

New Pool Room Recently Opened

Showing great confidence in the future of Lac la Biche, Ernest Coutney has opened a new pool room, confectionery and barber shop. Located near the Lac la Biche Hotel, it is one of the finest pool rooms in Northern Alberta. There are two snooker tables, two Boston tables and an up-to-date confectionery and soft drink bar, which is being managed by Miss A. Coutenay. Mr. Coutenay has moved his barber shop into a modern cubicle at the front end of the pool room.

Mr. Coutenay, one of Lac la Biche's local boys, having been raised and educated here, has been in the barber business here for the past 12 years.

Red Cross Campaign Results

A total of $31.25 has been collected so far in Prosperity and district and $51 in Boyle and district campaign for funds according to returns listed at the divisional office in Calgary up to and including April 23. Quota for Boyle is $200.

The provincial quota is $503,200 of which the following has been collected: Calgary $123,510; Southern Branches, $54,133.93; Edmonton, $131,079; Northern Branches, $24,138; other $7,324.13, totalling $340, 585.06.

It is expected that the full quota will be reached during the year for the books are kept open until December 31. However, branches are being urged to complete their quotas as quickly as possible in order not to infringe on other charities.

It is expected that once weather and road conditions have celared, there will be many more reurns being reported.

New headlamps on the 1956 Pontiacs will give more night time visibility with less glare against oncoming drivers. The passing beam provides up to 80 feet more seeing distance. Reduced upward reflected light in the new lamps improves visibility especially in dust, snow or rain.

Floods Keep Road Crews Busy

ROCHESTER — Flood waters caused much damage and are keeping road repair crews busy. The spring run-off caused the water level to be higher than for many years. However, flooding lasted only a few days and more normal conditions are evident again.

The water left in its wake a long list of expenditures for the M.D. councillors to face. A new plan of road improvement by deeper ditches, higher grades, and organized tree planting, to prevent snow drifted roads and ditches, seems to be the answer and will be started in the near future.

News From Other Alberta Towns

CPR Passenger Service Halted By Wash-Out

ANDREW — The C.P.R. passenger service was halted for almost a week, when the trackage west and east of here was washed out, but the train service is now back to normal.

The sudden thaw and the large volume of the run-off waters was just a little too much for the creek, which by-passes the town and empties into the North Saskatchewan River, ten miles north of here. Almost the entire quarter section of land to the north was flooded and the water level was about a foot and a half higher than the ground floor of the Town Sewer Lift Station, but the town foreman and the cauncil contemplated possible flooding this spring, and had the Lift S'ation well diked before there was any threat of flooding.

Several culverts in the district were washed out, but the students made arrangements to stay in town, and the public and high schools remained open.

To the south-east of the town, the level of Whitford Lake is perhaps higher than it has ever been and as a result, the road half a mile south of the town, is all water.

There have been no reports of basement flooding in town.

Flood Waters Subsiding

Spring thaw in Thorhild County with its attendant run-off, which brought flooding conditions to all parts of the district, seems to be safely over for the present.

During the past week the old bridge on the highway between Redwater and Egremont corners was swept out by the Redwater Creek overflow, and at one time the highway bridge at the Radway corner was threatened.

Oil company workers are being ferried across the creek to their jobs by boat, and some school children have had to travel all the way round to Radway to get to school in Redwater, due to the severe flooding conditions in the creek valley.

Old-timers and people who have lived in the district all their lives, state that they have never seen the Redwater Creek as high as it is this spring.

OTTAWA — Superiority of Alberta's highways over those in other parts of the country was in dispute in the Commons by two Alberta members.

Big Grain Movement Foreseen

A start has been made on what may be a record summer grain movement for Canada. With the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence open for navigation the tempo of grain exports has been greatly increased. Up to April 4, Canadian exports of wheat totalled 162.2 million bushels but it was conceivable that, barring unforeseen difficulties, this figure could almost be doubled by the end of July. In 1954-55, Canada exported 252 million bushels.

Exports made during the balance of the year will be dependent upon the regular arrival of boats to keep ports operating at their maximum capacity and the ability of the railways to provide sufficient boxcars to keep the terminals well supplied with the kinds and grades of grain required. There is apparently a strong demand for all the wheat that can be moved into the export position at least for several months ahead.

One of the big problems facing the Canadian Wheat Board is that of moving the grades into the terminals that are needed to meet the export demand and at the same time keeping delivery quotas throughout the prairies reasonably even. The problem would not be so difficult if all districts had the same grades or if there was a good market for every grade. Unfortunately, this is not the case. At points where elevators are filled with grain for which there is no ready market, shipments and consequently delivery quotas are bound to remain lower than at points having readily salable grain.

Past experience has proved that it is a serious mistake to allow country and terminal elevators to become plugged with the grain for which there is no immediate market. It is vitally important that the channels be kept clear so that every bushel possible can be exported while the market is available.

Last year a large proportion of the prairie wheat crop was 2 Northern and this grade has proved to be about the most difficult to sell. Most of the 5 and 6 wheat which has been plugging elevator facilities for some time has been cleared out and there has been a strong demand for 3 and 4 Northern but the top grades have been moving more slowly. This has worked against the farmers in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan as it has made it difficult to maintain good shipments out of those areas.

Unless there is a change in the preference of importers there is distinct possibility that in the months ahead the situation in regard to quota may become even more difficult.

Grace And New Hubby

The great ado which the world is lavishing on the actress Grace Kelly and her new hubby might become a subject of laughter in later years. As far as the Prince and Princess part of the story is concerned, it seems to be true story-book stuff.

However, we remember when Rita Hayworth took on another titled cowboy amid much hurrah, hoopla and hokum. The two marriages seem somewhat similar.

Chances are excellent, in the best Hollywood tradition, that Grace will tire of her European adventure and that a divorce will be the result of this much-publicized story-book affair.

That is the trouble with making so much over marriages which are going nowhere, or which — according to the history of Hollywood starts — usually go nowhere.

The youth of the country and the idealists among them look up to the marriage as something wonderful and when it explodes and turns out to be just another Hollywood "tour", the impression is distinctly bad.

If twenty-five years from now, this couple is happily married, we will — if alive — eat our words. On the other hand, and until that time, remember that the way of Hollywood stars and publicists is one involving much baloney and hokum from the sapheads, who comprise the hero-worshippers and the bulk of humanity.

Wrongfully Imprisoned--- Sixteen Years

In 1940, Roy E. Eaton, then 36 years old, was convicted of taking part in the robbery of a salesman. The robbery involved $50 and the sentence Eaton received for his alleged part in the robbery had totalled 16 years when he was recently released.

On the basis of new evidence, which showed Eaton had been mistaken for another man, he was immediately released, told he had been wrongfully imprisoned. On being released, he said he still had as much love for his fellow man as any man could, and that he would settle down, join a church, and try to live the life he so long dreamed about.

A small man, Eaton left the penitentiary in Illinois with only $89.51—$50 of this, a donation by the warden. In addition, he planned to look up a grown daughter, who did not know he had been in prison, and perhaps his wife, who had divorced him several years ago, and with whom he had lost contact.

Who can estimate or measure the damage done to such a life in wrongful imprisonment over a period of 16 years? Eaton, who displays a Christian spirit concerning the confusion and mistaken identity, is due substantial reward from the state of Illinois. His lawyer says the Illinois Legislature will be petitioned to pay him a substantial sum. We do not see how any legislator could refuse such a request.

I'm Pushing Me

The main idea behind the meaning of humility is to push.

"Hold on a minute!" you say. "Why that's the very opposite of what I thought the word meant."

Well, it all depends upon who's pushing who and where. The humble person is a person who pushes himself into the background. You see, there's an active element in real humility. To be humble isn't simply to retire without a murmur. That would be a passive retreat. It might be a symptom of fear or downright inadequacy.

To be humble isn't simply to step back and let the other fellow go ahead of you. This may be commendable but humility is more than this.

Humility is to win a battle with self. You win when you push self into the background in order to give pre-eminence to Christ.

Remember how Paul tried to get across this idea in his letter to the Galatians: "It is no longer I who live but Christ who lives in me."

It was humility that made Dr. Carey on his own deathbed say to a friend: "When I am gone, do not speak about William Carey, speak only of William Carey's Saviour."

Political Decision

(Ottawa Citizen)

The stock criticism of the alternative vote in single-member ridings is that people have not bothered to use it enough to affect many results, that they still tend to plump. Yet it was used enough to throw a scare into the Social Credit regime in Alberta last summer. This may help explain Social Credit's decision that the system should be abandoned.

Note and Comment

The federal government's plan to pay a portion of the carrying charges on wheat held by the Wheat Board will mean an extra 6 to 9 cents a bushel on 1954-55 deliveries, according to Hon. Stewart Garson, federal minister of justice.

PIPELINES GOING OUT

We were told some time ago by the candidates of the S.C. party that no crude oil or gas would be shipped out of the province, but that it would be refined and the by-products used to induce industry to come to the province and create jobs. The policy was carried out for a while and we saw a number of large concerns settling on the outskirts of Edmonton, but something or somebody has thrown a monkey-wrench into the proceedings.

What is happening. Well, look at Sarnia, Ont. Some years ago Sarnia was just a small hamlet, now it's a fairly large city. Why? Well the pipeline carrying oil from Alberta ends there and who's getting the benefit of the refineries in Sarnia? Alberta? Not on your life.

After the pipeline was built to the west coast, up went an $11,000,000 refinery there. Who will benefit from the by-products? Alberta?

As the late Mr. Aberhart said, "If we haven't suffered enough it's our God-given right to suffer some more." How true, how true! Also, the matter of the $25 bonus keeps cropping up. With all the millions that the Government of Alberta is drawing in there is no valid reason why this bonus cannot be given. Not to every Tom, Dick and Harry, but to old age pensioners, war veterans of low income, widows with children and married couples, over a certain age, with children. This would not be a hard problem to work out.

The request made by the mayor of Edmonton, that more money be given to the municipalities is definitely out. They are getting enough now for the services they render. But by giving it to the above mentioned folks it would be spent in the towns and villages throughout the province and everyone would benefit.

HIGHWAY CONFUSION

Why, when autoists have to stop on the shoulder of a road at night, do they invariably light up their lefthand directional signal. That's a boner. That signal means "Don't pass; I'm making a left turn." Why not light up the righthand signal? That would mean, "Pass on left; I'm standing or else turning to the right."

SNOW BLOCK PREVENTION

I enjoy your paper very much and in reading the "Voice of the People" column in the March 21 issue I noticed an article headed "Would Plant More Trees". I don't agree with Mr. Roy Lee.

If every farmer planted a row of trees 100 to 150 feet from the fence we wouldn't have to spend $90 a mile to plow out some of our roads. A tree nursery should be started for the purpose of supplying trees to the farmers. The provincial government could furnish the municipal districts and counties with tree-planting machines to do the job properly. I can't understand how an M.L.A. like Mr. Lee can have the nerve to make a statement like he did in saying, "No intelligent man could advocate the planting of trees along roads". Does he want Alberta to turn into a Sahara?

I thought we had intelligent men as representatives in the asembly, but if they are going to make statements like Mr. Lee they should be on the farm shovelling snow whether they like it or not.

An Intelligent Tree Planter.
Hollow Lake.

I have just read an article in the "Western Producer", of April 5, entitled "Will They Waste Fifty Million on Grid Roads" by Arnold Staples. He advocates wide roads as our best means of coping with our snow problem.

Snow-plowing is just so much money lost. It's much better to build roads that are trouble free. Our land is not so valuable that we cannot afford to give 100 feet or more if required for a roadway.

During the winter farm families have the time to get together and this they should be able to do with as little inconvenience as possible. The new part of Highway 13 demonstrates quite clearly what a wide roadway can do to solve the snow problem on our roads.

I recommend that Municipal District councillors, school trustees, and farmers read Mr. Staples' article.

THE GOVERNMENT'S OPPORTUNITY

(Edmonton Journal)

The announcement that an Alberta concern is planning to build a $20,000,000 pulp and wood products plant in the White Court area, provides the provincial government with an opportunity to take constructive action on the newsprint problem.

Despite Alberta's forest wealth, it still imports all the newsprint used by its various publications, including nearly 120 weekly newspapers. Close to $5,000,000 is sent out of the province for this one item alone, besides large sums for other types of paper, which could be readily manufactured at home. The supply of imported newsprint, moreover, is subject to strange fluctuations. At the present time, the province is experiencing a "famine", due to the decision of the big paper companies to cut back deliveries, and the printing of daily and weekly newspapers and other publications is being seriously hampered.

In granting timber leases to the new companies, and to others which may enter the field, the government should make it a condition of the contracts that the applicants manufacture a specified amount of newsprint each year along with other paper products, and that they reserve at least a portion of this for local purchasers. If this were done, it would keep at home several million dollars now sent out of the province each year, provide employment for Alberta workers and assure the province an adequate supply of newsprint for all its requirements.

THE GRAVE DIGGERS

By HENRY THOMPSON

MCRAE — Two young men who lived in the old Victoria settlement were inseparable companions and had been since they were mere boys. Gaddie Norm was a slender, wiry little fellow with a smiling pleasant face and a quick short step. He had received the nick name of Gaddie, by his older brothers and sisters because of this quick step which was like that of an old timer by the name of Gaddie.

Simon McGillvery was a tall, lanky lad, with a habitually sober face except that his eyes sparkled and the corners of his mouth crinkled when there was something funny to laugh at. These young men were almost opposites in appearance but were alike in their love for fun and mischief. Simon was a practical joker, who lost few opportunities to practice his art.

Gaddie's quiet wit, early earned him a reputation for harmless fun. He was a born mimic and could act the part of some elders in the settlement with such exact actions that always created a good laugh by his elder prothers and sisters. His mother tried to stem what she considered was disrespect for older people She scolded and sometimes whipped him when she caught him in one o these shows but the encouragement he got from his brothers that were nearly all grown men offset all his old mother's efforts in this regard.

Gaddie and his chum Simon had come under the bad graces of their parents for some harmless escapade and were ordered to dig a grave for an Indian who had died in the settlement. Deaf Joe, who was some relation to the dead man was to go along to help.

The ground was frozen for about a foot and it took them till late afternoon to get past the frost. The ground was a gravelly substance with many small stones, easy digging but it was nearly evening before they could get anywhere near finished. Considerable caving delayed them further till it was past sundown. Simon a short time previous conceived of a brilliant idea for some practical fun.

"Gaddie", he said, "I am going home to supper, I can't work when I am hungry."

"Go ahead Simon," you've done your share anyway, I have only a little cleaning to do, then Joe and I will go home together."

"Well," said Simon, "If you fellows don't come back soon, I'll come back with a light".

Unfortunately Simon was hardly beyond hearing when a big slide of gravel caved in at the bottom, almost trapping Gaddie. The grave was now deep enough but Gaddie refused Joe's appeal to go home and finish in the morning. It was now quite dark and Joe was getting more nervous and afraid by the minute. He wouldn't go down in the hole but stood at the top urging Gaddie to quit.

Suddenly Deaf Joe uttered a frightened holler, "Gaddie I see a ghost coming!"

"Don't be scared Joe, you are getting worked up about nothing." There was no reply from Joe but the frightened thumping of his feet on the frozen ground attested to his flight.

Gaddie now thoroughly angered at his foolish companion's fears, climbed out of the hole, to see what had scared his helper. For a moment he was frightened at the phenomenon of a ghost that was standing about thirty paces away stock still, but his quick wit established itself as he recalled Simon's unusual desertion.

In the meantime his older brothers, Jimmy and Joseph had arrived home and were told that Gaddie hadn't come home yet, so they immediately dumped their hunt and galloped their horses back to the graveyard to see about Gaddie. They were just in time to catch Joe's precipious departure at the gate and his almost incoherant explanation for his fright. They raced up the hill on foot just in time to hear the following conversation.

Gaddie had reached down and filled his pockets with fair sized stones, without being seen by the ghost. When Gaddie stood up, the ghost had moved a couple of paces closer so he threw a stone, which landed with a loud thump on the ghost's shoulder. Another directly afterwards touched a vital spot.

The ghost with a frenzied yell, sufficient to wake the dead hollered, "Gaddie its me, don't hit me again, you've hurt me bad.

The voice of Simon's grandfather, dead the past two years answered back, "You can't fool me, you're not Simon, my grandson would never make fun of the dead and I've been here the last two years." The stones kept up a steady stream, some near hits and others grazing his garments.

Another stone found its mark, this time it was too much for the would-be ghost as he dropped his ghostly attire and fled, his long legs clearing tombstones with the frightened agility of a jumping deer. Gaddie didn't let up with the stones till his tormentor was out of sight and beyond his reach.

Picking up the new Hudson Bay white blanket, he returned to gather up his tools where he found his brothers waiting for him. They were bent over with laughter.

When they sobered up, they finished the grave. Gaddie had earned a rest.

Simon would eat humble pie before he got the blanket back, he would have much explaining to do when his grandmother missed the blanket.

Old, Old Lady Best Decorator

By Evelyn Kilnps

Now that spring decorating time s here again, my thoughts wander to an old, old, old lady I know. She does the best job of spring cleaning of anyone. Every year, she uses the same color scheme and when she's finished, there's nothing as beautiful as her home.

Some years she is quite la'e getting started, and people talk about her, complain that she's so slow and that she should have been busy weeks back. But whether late getting started or not, she always gets it done and that's more than can be said for some people.

First of all, she washes everything down, time and time again Then she scatters mats and rugs of the most beautiful carpeting ever seen, so soft and springy Her rugs are always a lovely shade of green, sprinkled with tiny flowers in violet and buttercup yellow and bordered with roses She makes these rugs herself and there's no rug to be found in the stores to compare with them.

Over all her furniture, she spreads slip covers of the loveliest lacy material, in many shades o green. How fresh and enchanting everything looks! How swee and clean everything smells!

Now I must tell you about her ceiling. She doesn't have square-cornered rooms like other people Her wall and ceiling are all in one, shaped like a dome. This she decorates in a clear azure blue. This beautiful color can't be bought in a paint can, for she mixes it herself; nor does it look like a flat coat of paint, but seems to have depth to it and a velvety look. Then, when darkness falls her dome seems to turn a deep midnight blue. She has a wonderful lighting system—one big silvery lamp and thousands of small twinkling lights sprinkled all around.

When I think of her spring decorating, it makes me remember her fall decorating also. Every fall she redecorates and uses the most beautiful shades of crimson gold and brown.

During the cold weather she hangs drapes at her window. She make these herself and they're of glorious material in all shades of the rainbow. I know she loves them, for I've seen her stand and pull the drawstrings just to watch their beauty unfold. Then she'll close them, then open them, and she keeps this up for hours sometimes, glorying in their beauty.

When winter comes, she covers everything with white sheets and leaves them covered until spring arrives.

So, let's stop talking about her being slow in getting her decorating done. Remember, she's an old old, old lady. And whether she's late or early, she always does it. Now don't tell me you've never talked behind her back; that you don't know her. Everybody does. She's Mother Nature!

What are believed to be the first "scenic domes" ever to be used on the railway appeared in Alberta in 1905. Two cars with domes were used on the C.P.R. mountain run west of Calgary until 1912.

with CA Tractor and Subsoiler

A reserve of precious water can mean the difference between a bountiful harvest and just an ordinary crop.

The Allis-Chalmers CA Tractor with subsoiler penetrates to a depth of 18 inches and shatters hardpan. This permits more water to accumulate in the subsoil and allows plant roots to penetrate deeper in search of water and plant food.

Low-cost subsoiling with your own equipment is another advantage of owning an Allis-Chalmers CA, WD or WD-45 Tractor. Automatic Traction Booster and low, forward, single hitchpoint give necessary traction for real subsoiling with a wheel tractor.

Has Russia Gained The Leadership In Science And Engineering?

Russia's astonishing development in science and technology is giving her in some ways the scientific leadership of the world. Russia's production of scientists has already outstripped the U.S. and this is a part of her plan to achieve the mastery of the world.

Allen W. Dulles, says, "Twenty-five years ago, Soviet scientific education was riddled with naive experiments, persecution of scholors, and unrealistic programs. Today that is now longer so. The Soviet education system, the sciences and engineering now bears close comparison with ours, both in quality of training and in numbers of persons trained to high level".

Already the Soviet Union has produced over 1,000,000 university graduates in science. Mathew Halton says, and in engineering twice as many as the United States. There is no doubt that the purpose behind this emphasis on education is to compete in and win in the competitive years ahead between her and the capitalist world.

The most dangerous feature of this expansion is that the Russian people appear to be rejoicing in the prospects of better times to come and are eagerly supporting their government. They are showing an inspiration and enthusiasm for their system that is going to be very difficult for the free world to match. The west needs more dynamic leadership and a more definite and appealing slogan and purpose than is as yet in sight.

Mr. Pearson, in Newsweek Magazine quotes Khruschev as saying on more than one occasion, "We want peace because we can win the conflict between the two systems — your system and our system — without war". There is a fear in the West that he may be right.

Britain is taking steps to remedy the shortage of scientists in that country, Canada and the United States are getting busy more slowly.

Some think our capitalist system is different now than formerly by becoming more democratically or collectively owned through the 8,000,000 who hold shares and stocks, and through the increase in government controls and built-in stabilizers. These are all to the good but as yet far from adequate to inspire devotion and enthusiasm among the general run of the population.

Civil Servants Get Pay Boosts

OTTAWA (BUP) — Pay raises for another 4,000 civil servants were announced by the civil service commission.

The increases, retroactive to April 1, cover some 200 classes and grades. Included are senior posts with salaries up to $10,000 a year.

The pay boosts range from six to 10 per cent. They are in line with those announced earlier for about 134,000 federal employees.

WESTMOUNT PROMOTERS TO BUILD SECOND SHOPPERS' PARK IN CITY

By T. W. PUE

EDMONTON — The syndicate which built a $5,000,000 shopping centre in West Edmonton, announces plans for a similar project to cost $4,000,000 in the Bonnie Doon area of southeastern Edmonton at Whyte Avenue and 85 St. Land clearing and excavation will begin soon.

At first, the project will have space to park 3,000 cars, but the permit calls for reducing this to 2,500 and increasing the space for stores and shops later on.

This is the latest development for plans for a South Side Shoping Centre. Several years ago, Woodward's, leaders in the Westmount Park had plans to build a large South Edmonton store on the north side of Whyte Avenue, somewhere between 105 and 107 Street.

Large housing developments, south of the River, have increased the city population in this section to the point where it is considered more shopping facilities are needed.

On the north side of the River, plans of Safeways to build a supermarket on the Fort Trail have been delayed.

New Refinery Planned By Shell

EDMONTON (BUP) — W. M. V. Ash, of Toronto, president of Shell Oil Company of Canada, said in Edmonton that Shell was studying plans for a new oil refinery in Alberta but that a site has not yet been decided.

Ash said the company is continuing to expend its exploration development and marketing programs in western Canada. The total outlay for this year will be in excess of $18,000,000.

"We expect to drill 80 wells in the western provinces during 1956, he said. Our plans provide for operating eight seismic crews and six surface geological parties."

Queried as to the possible cost of the refinery, Shell president said "it was much to early to say what the figure might be."

Refinery men, however, estimate that the minimum cost of a major plant would range between $6,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Wants Northern Route Highway

OTTAWA — When the Progressive Conservative member voted against the Trans-Canada Highway, it raised an interesting point in the House of Commons.

R. F. L. Hanna, Liberal member for Edmonton-Strathcona, suggested that the route should be changed. Instead of running through Calgary and the Kicking Horse Pass, said Mr. Hanna, why not run it through Edmonton and the Yellowhead route?

Carl Nickle, the Calgary member who voted against the highway, later said he was in favor of it. But he did not rescind his opposition in committee. Mr. Hanna urged that the Yellowhead route is, in any case, superior to the southern route.

Gov't Changes Publicity Set-Up

EDMONTON — Major reorganization is in progress in the Alberta government publicity bureau.

It is expected the bureau will be split into three separate branches, each headed by a director.

H. E. "Hal" Martin, 41, publisher of the weekly Westlock Witness, has been appointed to edit government publications, effective May 1.

Mr. Martin has resigned from the presidency of the Alberta division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, and it is understood he will dispose of his weekly newspaper at Westlock, 50 miles northwest of Edmonton.

E. S. J. Bryant will continue as director of publicity, handling advertising material and tourist promotion.

Ronald D. Maclean will continue as public relations officer, doing liaison work with the daily and weekly newspapers, news services and radio stations.

At present all three functions are carried out under supervision of the publicity bureau.

SAVE SOIL AND SOIL MOISTURE with the MM MINNEAPOLIS-MOLINE MODERN MACHINERY PLOW DRILL

In one trip; with a 3 or 4-bottom plow and Plow Drill, you plow soil or stubble, smooth the furrows for a firm and level seedbed, seed with a famous Moline-Monitor seeder and press each seedling into place. There is no side-draft because plow and Plow Drill are pulled through separate hitch points on the plow drawbar. Exclusive non-binding ball-and-socket hitch allows packer and drill to follow ground contours independently. One-trip operation checks soil erosion and helps retain precious soil moisture.

You get top performance from these features:

18-inch packer wheels, v-shaped for both sideways and downward cutting and crushing action . . . Sealed oil-impregnated hardwood bearings and sealed cone bearings used where best needed for long life and light draft . . . Zig-zag arrangement of drill discs prevents piling up of trash.

Semi-pneumatic rubber-tired press wheels flatten and expand as they turn, prevent soil from building up on wheels and help to absorb shocks . . . Choice of either lever lift or an exclusive power lift for raising and lowering discs. Turning with discs up reduces wear on discs and drawbar.

Stop in and let us show you all the Minneapolis-Moline Plow Drill features that give you top performance.

Roper Quits As CCF Head

EDMONTON — Elmer E. Roper, 63-year-old provincial leader of the CCF party for the last 13 years, announced recently he is withdrawing from that post and will not accept nomination when the provincial convention is held here June 22-23.

"I am making this announcement with the approval of the provincial executive," Mr. Roper said.

First elected to the Alberta legislature in 1942 to fill the Edmonton vacancy caused by death of D. M. Duggan, Progressive Conservative leader, Mr. Roper was re-elected in 1944-48-52 general elections. He was defeated in the 1955 provincial election.

Mr. Roper became provincial CCF leader when Chester A. Ronning resigned to enlist in the RCAF during the Second World War.

"Fort" Expands Under Industrial Development

FORT SASKATCHEWAN — Growth and development of this community under the impetus of industrial progress was the subject of a feature article in the current issue of The Financial Post. Written by Eric Young, secretary of the Fort Saskatchewan Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, the article deals with past and projected expenditure for industrial plants, and resulting residential growth.

It is reported that Sherritt-Gordon Mines will expend three and a half million dollars to enlarge its present sulphate and water treatment plants, while Peace River Glass Company will spend $375,000 within the next year for construction of a glass melting plant to manufacture glass tubing.

Inland Cement Company is investigating possibilities of an alum plant to supplement its present sulphuric acid plant. Building permits for 1955 of $1,857,086 in the town doubled the 1954 figure, and 1956 may see a further increase.

Indian Woman's Blood Saves Life New-Born Tot

TORONTO — An Indian woman's blood was flown across half a continent in a race against time to save the life of a new-born baby.

Doctors at the Hospital for Sick Children here said the rare-type blood arrived in Toronto a week ago from Edmonton.

The blood necessary for his survival is known only in four other humans besides an Alberta Indian family living in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains.

Doctors said the story of the operation to save the infant's life, which involved the country-wide facilities of the Red Cross, started in nearby Oshawa General Hospital Friday, when the baby was born.

Doctors attending the infant and his mother, noticed he was developing a jaundice condition and suspected blood complications. The identity of the mother and baby has not been disclosed at the request of the family.

He was taken by ambulance to Toronto, where it was learned his blood was a different type than the mother's. Hospital officials called the Red Cross blood laboratory for assistance.

Within 36 hours, a Red Cross doctor from Edmonton had driven 300 miles to the home of the Indian family and returned with a transfusion of blood. It was placed aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane and delivered to doctors in Toronto.

Until the rare blood arrived, the baby received a blood replacement, composed from a mixture of bloods from various donors, which was a close approximation of the type needed.

An Indian woman, Mrs. Clara L'Hirondelle, was taken to Misericordia Hospital in Edmonton. It was discovered she had the rare type, described as a chomosome deletion.

Investigation of the woman's family by the Red Cross, showed 23 members of it had the same rare blood type.

Mrs. L'Hirondelle and her sister, Mrs. Mary Calliho, provided blood a year ago to save the life of a baby in Redwood City, Calif.

Perryvale

A number of local men and teenage boys got together April 21 and sand-bagged the flooded road west of Perryvale bridge, hauled rocks, etc. to fill in washed-out holes and thus made the road passable. School buses resumed operation April 23, all except the Sunray bus which is still unable to travel due to impassable roads.

Bernard Oldfield has returned to his work in the oil field at Drayton Valley.

Ed Magnant has returned home after spending the winter months with relatives in Edmonton.

Prosperity

The school van isn't running due to bad roads. Some pupils walk as far as seven miles each day to attend school. Other pupils have found rooms with people who live near the school.

HARRIED SEAMSTRESS? TAKE A TIP

Helen Moseson our clothing specialist for the department of agriculture has been out working in this district for a few days. Among her timely sewing tips are these:

When buying material always have the saleslady tear when ever possible instead of cutting it from the bolt. Check whether the crosswise and lengthwise grainlines (filling and warp) are exactly at right angles. The material must be straight to insure a perfect hang in the finished garment.

When laying the pattern on material the grainlines of paper pattern must coincide with those of material.

Plaids are not for the beginner. Extra material is required, care must be taken in laying the pattern to see that the plaids match at seam joinings. In this class small gingham checks are easiest to work with; larger unbalanced plaids are the most difficult.

Press as you sew to get a professional look.

Strengthen the unedrarm seam to prevent it from ripping by sewing ribbon or strip of the salvage in with the seam.

You can blind hem on an ordinary sewing machine without an attachment. For further instructions see your district home economist.

Do all your gathering by machine. Use No. 10 thread on the bobbin and about 6 stitches to the inch. It is wise to keep a bobbin filled with No. 10 thread for this purpose.

Save yourself time and get more accurate markings. Use a tracing wheel and paper to mark darts and design lines from pattern.

We have an excellent bulletin with instructions on how to get more working ease in the sleeves of your housedress. It is available free from this office.
